Our Purpose: To develop and coordinate a comprehensive DWI counter-measure program to deter the incidence of drunk driving and the occurrence of alcohol and drug related traffic injuries and fatalities. The program is funded by fines from convicted drunk drivers. The STOP-DWI Program is active throughout the county, providing public information and education booths at public health fairs, corporate safety fairs, the Oswego County Fair, and other community events throughout the county. Our activities include use of Fatal Vision alcohol and recreational marijuana impairment goggles with activity mats and pedal karts on serpentine cone courses. Program staff members and Victim Impact Panelists also travel to local high schools for classroom presentations to driver education and health classes.

Since the spring of 2005, STOP-DWI and a coalition of area public safety agencies have presented "MOCK DWI" crash scenarios at local high schools. This presentation as developed not only contains the "Crash" but includes rescue, police investigation, death notification, defendant arraignment and lastly the funeral itself. School districts generally present biennial Mock Crashes to students in their junior and senior years just before the prom.

The Upstate New York Poison Center of Upstate Medical University is a telephone service available 24 hours a day, 365 days a year for poison emergencies or for poison information. The Center manages over 80,000 calls annually, with about 50% of the calls involving children under the age of six. Over 85% of these cases are successfully treated at home through telephone consultation, eliminating unnecessary trips to the Emergency Department. About 30% of total calls to the poison center are from healthcare facilities seeking the expertise of poison center specialists.

The poison center is responsible for a 54-county catchment area of NYS. It is staffed by registered nurses certified by the American Association of Poison Control Centers as Specialists in Poison Information with consultation provided by both medical and clinical toxicologists. Additionally, the Center maintains a list of other consultants, specialists in their field, to help in the management as necessary.

Education for health care professionals is accomplished through: case conferences held weekly at the center, clinical rotations for physicians, pharmacists, nurses and other health care professionals; in-services conducted for hospital staff throughout the 54 county service area; Toxicology Teaching Day held in Syracuse, NY each Fall; and through the center's drug information services. Public educational programs for children, parents, seniors and many other segments of the population are customized for the needs of the target audience. Health educators promote poison prevention awareness in local communities and work closely with identified points-of-service agencies to provide educational programming and materials to the communities served by the Center.

Preventive Services: * Preventive Services for children and families is designed to support families by providing services and resources needed to strengthen the family unit which enable families to remain intact and avoid unnecessary placement of children in foster care.

Foster Care Services: * Foster Care Services provides temporary care to children who are unable to remain with their family due to serious problems within the family. Caseworkers work to reunite the family. If a child cannot return to his or her family, the agency works to develop a permanent plan for the child through adoption, or if the child is older, by assisting them to learn the skills needed to live independently.

Child Protective Services: * Child Protective Services includes the receipt of reports of suspected abuse and maltreatment of children in Oswego County from the NYS State Central Register. A caseworker is assigned to each situation to assess the risk factors and safety of the children involved and to determine if the family needs assistance in order to keep their children safe.

Family Assessment Response (FAR) Protective Services: FAR begins in the same manner as an investigative response: a report of child abuse or maltreatment is received by the State Central Register. Once the report of abuse or maltreatment is transmitted to the local district, it is screened for the most appropriate response based on the county's FAR criteria. Child Safety is achieved through family engagement and collaborative partnerships. Parents are seen and engaged as partners in maintaining child safety. Families lead the process of identifying solutions, appropriate resources and services, both formal and informal, that they feel will best meet their needs. Within FAR, the focus is on gaining and understanding of the family's functioning through a comprehensive assessment of safety, risk, strengths and needs.

Adult Protective: * Protective Services for Adults (PSA): Services provided to assist adults age 18 or older who, because of mental or physical impairments can no longer provide for their basic needs for food, clothing, shelter or medical care, or protect themselves from neglect, abuse or hazardous situations, and who have no one willing and able to help in a responsible manner.

* Programs are provided without regard to income.

OFFICE OF CHILDREN AND FAMILY SERVICES

1-800-342-3720 New York State Child Abuse and Maltreatment Register
www.ocfs.ny.gov

This is a mandated reporters hotline, available 24 hours a day, seven days a week for the purpose of reporting cases of suspected child abuse anywhere in New York State. Information is received by the Child Abuse Hotline in Albany. If it is during regular Social Service hours, Albany contacts the Mexico office and they act on it.

If it is after hours, Albany contacts the assigned on-call caseworker. The on-call caseworker then calls Albany back for information and then acts on it. In any case, the original caller is contacted by the local CPS worker if they give their name and number to Albany. Name of caller will be requested but it is not required. The subject of an abuse report can request a copy of the report, but the source of information is always kept confidential.

A child protective worker will visit the home of the subject of the complaint and has the power to remove the child or children from the home if the child is found to be in imminent danger. A court order has to be obtained by them soon thereafter. The Child Protective Unit always acts to protect the child. The Child Protective caseworker must make a prompt and accurate determination to prevent injury to the child's welfare.

This program is designed to assist individuals with coordination needs such as goal setting, health promotion, transitional care, referrals to community, social supports, patient and family supports, and advocacy. Individuals work with a primary Care Manager to create their own Plan of Care. Designed by the client and for the client, the Plan of Care includes other service providers and supports in their life. Individuals have responsibilities in the plan, as will others, to help them accomplish their goals and meet their needs. The Care Manager will, with permission, collaborate with other agencies and service providers to help meet the individual needs and coordinate services. Common goals include: stabilizing housing, financial management, medication management, finding employment, furthering education, and physical wellness. Care Management is a short term (based upon individual needs), voluntary program designed to assist individuals so that they can learn to manage their overall health and wellness, and be able to meet their needs on their own. It helps individuals work through crises, stabilize, and coordinate services so that supports are in place for continued wellness. Care Management does not provide housing or transportation.

Offers a service model where all an individual's caregivers communicate with one another to ensure that the patient's needs are addressed in a comprehensive manner. The Care Manager oversees and provides access to all of the services and individual needs to assure that they receive everything necessary to stay healthy, out of the emergency room and out of the hospital. The program is designed to assist individuals diagnosed with a serious mental illness, and who do not have Medicaid, with coordination needs. Those needs include goal setting, health promotion, transitional care, referrals to community and social supports, patient and family supports, and advocacy. Individuals work with a primary Care Manager to create their own Plan of Care. Designed by the client and for the client, the Plan of Care includes other service providers and supports in their life.

Individuals have responsibilities in the plan, as will others, to help them accomplish their goals and meet their needs. The Care Manager will, with permission, collaborate with other agencies and service providers to help meet the individual needs and coordinate services. Common goals include: stabilizing housing, financial management, medication management, finding employment, furthering education, and physical wellness. Care Management is a short term (based upon individual needs), voluntary program designed to assist individuals so that they can learn to manage their overall health and wellness, and be able to meet their needs on their own. It helps individuals work through crises, stabilize, and coordinate services so that supports are in place for continued wellness. Care Management does not provide housing or transportation.

Referrals for this program come from the Mental Health Services Coordinator (MHSC) at Oswego County Department of Social Services/Mental Hygiene Division, 100 Spring St, POB 1320, Mexico, NY 13114, phone 315-963-5361, fax 315-963-5530.

Veterans Benefits Advisors assist the claimant — whether a veteran, spouse, child, or parent — in completing applications, obtaining necessary documentation, and filing claims for a broad spectrum of federal, state, local, and private veterans' benefits. Veterans Benefits Advisors also assist by responding to follow-up correspondence and, appealing an unfavorable ruling.

Oswego Preventive Services is designed to work with Oswego County families that have youth at risk of possible placement due to issues related to PINS or JD behaviors. Services are delivered from a strength-based perspective and work to develop partnerships with families to assist them with addressing issues that place the youth at risk. A primary belief of the program is that children learn best in the context of their own family, that placing a child out of the home is a last resort and should only occur when all other options have been exhausted or when issues of safety are a concern. Referrals are made through the Oswego County Department of Social Services. The program offers casework services to families. During an initial assessment phase, the program's caseworkers assist families with identifying issues that place children at risk and then with developing goals to address those concerns. The program provides both home-based and school-based counseling services, crisis intervention, advocacy and referral to other support services in the community.

Liberty Resources Self-Direction Services

Self-Directed Services is an option that allows individuals with a developmental disability, along with their parents or advocates, to exercise choices around the types of supports and services they receive and from whom they receive them. This is done through an assessment of the individual's needs and resources by a service provider known as a Broker, and the subsequent development of an annual budget (also known as a Personal Needs Allocation or PNA). With the support of their parent/advocate, Broker, Care Manager and Circle of Support, the individual will have the freedom to exercise budget and employer authority over their PNA. Any individual with a disability enrolled on the Medicaid Home and Community-Based Waiver, from the age of 3 years and up can exercise the option of using Self-Directed Services.

Leadership Oswego County Youth (LOCY) is a program designed to develop skills in potential teen leaders. Based on Leadership Oswego County, an adult leadership program, the youth version teaches valuable skills using a variety of learning processes. The curriculum is built on a trusteeship design, (taking responsibility for one's community) reinforcing aspects of personal, team and community growth. LOCY facilitators work with participating youth through activities and discussions. The year is spent developing lifelong skill sets, starting with developing an awareness of one's personal self and building use of these skills in the youth's community and future. Class/skill areas include public speaking, communication, teamwork, community awareness and involvement, economic diversity, amongst many others. Once graduated from LOCY, students will be prepared to become involved in a number of leadership roles opportunities in Oswego County schools, agencies and communities now and in the future.

LOCY is open to all high school students, with preference given to sophomores who have an interest in gaining leadership skills, learning about Oswego County and making a difference in their schools, communities and futures. Previous leadership is not required. Typical training includes two overnight retreats at Camp Hollis, day-long sessions once a month at Mexico CiTi Boces, and a community service project. The 2021 class year is being held virtually to adjust to the COVID-19 pandemic.
